

OPPOSE CHANGE IN ADMISSIONS TO COUNTY BAR

At a meeting of the committee on legal education and admission to the bar of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, in Reading last Friday and Saturday, Judge W. C. Sheely, president judge of the Adams-Fulton courts, voiced the objections of the Adams County Bar Association, to any legislative action designed to correct so-called "closed shop" among lawyers.

There was a lively debate on the question at the meeting. State Senator John M. Walker, of Allegheny county, who has said he will sponsor a bill in the state Legislature this year to "ease the long-discussed situation" was not present.

Regulate Admissions
The local jurist, a member of the legal education committee, read a resolution of the Adams county bar which opposed any action which would take away from the local courts the right and power to determine and prescribe the requirements for admission.

Under the present arrangement county bars reserve the right to set up regulations controlling admissions.

The Adams county bar opposes any change in this rule for the following reasons:
1. The population of the counties of Pennsylvania varies from 5,791 to 1,931,334 . . . the practice of law varies according to population and according to the economic life of the citizens of the county.
2. The qualifications and the number of members of the bar can best be determined by local courts which (Please Turn To Page 6)

DR. RASMUSSEN OPENS MISSION AT LITTLESTOWN

Approximately 550 were present for the opening service of the annual preaching mission sponsored by the Littlestown ministerium in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday evening. The Rev. Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, professor of systematic theology in the Gettysburg seminary, spoke on "The Rebirth of Conviction," based on the text, Acts 16:31, "Believe on the Lord Jesus and thou shalt be saved." Dr. Rasmussen said, "America was founded by men of great conviction. Our Pilgrim forebears were men of great conviction. They didn't come to seek wealth but to worship God. Today, something has gone wrong with America's dream of a better tomorrow. There is an evidence of wide-spread fear. No explanation of our present situation is complete that fails to recognize the fact that a great many people have given up the conviction of our fathers. They have lost confidence, both in God and man."

Continuing, he said: "As a result, bad convictions have arisen and we are worried about foreign ideologies such as Communism. These bad convictions can only be overcome by good convictions, and not by guns. We can win a war by the superiority of our resources, our man-power, our machinery, our military leadership and strategy. But peace can only be won by what is in our hearts, the convictions of our forefathers."

Rebirth of Conviction
In conclusion he said, "The Church is the mother of good convictions. Unless men and women come to a rebirth of conviction in the Lord Jesus, there can be no security. The greatest service we can render to our day is the rebirth of conviction in our own hearts."

The service was in charge of the Rev. Kenneth D. James, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, in place of the host pastor, the Rev. David S. (Please Turn To Page 7)

Fritz Kuhn Given Extension On Appeal

Munich, Germany, Jan. 10 (P) — Fritz Kuhn, former head of the German-American Bund, was granted more time today to prepare an appeal against a 10-year hard labor sentence.

Kuhn recently appealed the sentence he received from a German Denazification court. He was convicted in absentia as an active Nazi, while he was a fugitive last April. Appeal had been set for today.

On Kuhn's request the Munich Court of Appeals tentatively set February 14 as the new trial date.

The Bund leader was expelled from the United States during the war.

Picnics Held In Balm Weather

The extremely mild weather over the past week-end brought out many motorists and a large number of tourists, and, at Caledonia state park, several picnic parties.

It was an unusual occurrence, where snow very often lies deep in the woods, to see groups of picnickers building their fires in the stone fireplaces at Caledonia park, and sitting down at the picnic tables to enjoy an out-of-door dinner or supper usually reserved for the warmer months.

Many persons, both Gettysburg residents, and out of town motorists, visited the battlefield Sunday, afternoon. The park service reported 756 battlefield visitors Saturday and Sunday, making it the park's "biggest January Sunday in a long time."

MORE THAN 40 ATTEND WARNER PARTY SUNDAY

More than 40 employees of the Majestic and Strand theatres, their wives and husbands and guests, attended the Warner club annual party at the Peace Light inn, Mumbasburg road, Sunday evening.

Allen B. Pannell, a freshman at Gettysburg college, an amateur magician, gave an entertaining exhibition of magic.

Miss Martha Herman, member of the Gettysburg college choir, sang "One Alone" and "When Day Is Done" accompanied on the piano by Donald Bollinger.

Jack J. Olinger, pianist and comedian, entertained with "boogie-woogie" and songs. Paul L. Dougherty was master of ceremonies and the committee in charge of the party included: Alfred J. B. Ness, Fred P. Haehnel, Jr., and James F. Smith.

Guests At Party
Those attending the party included:

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney J. Poppay, John A. Kane, Miss Vestal Stallsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Carol Redding, Paul Dougherty, Mary Thomas, Alfred Ness, Mabel Ness, Betty Irvin, Allene Irvin, James Sanders, Claire Smith, Lilly Bucher, Fred Haehnel, Marian Menchey, John Martin, Rheda Martin, Sally Poppay, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lipsey, Jr., Betty Ann Lipsey, Harold Mellas, Clair Sanders, Mark Steinour, Rose Marie Redding, Robert Arndt, Mr. and Mrs. George Lempsis, Grace Myers, Mary Catherine Frazer, William Lewis, Dorothy Hott, Lillian Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stine, Paul Grove, Nancy R. Shanbrook, Mae Dickinson, Charles Holloway, Ernest Stover, Bernard King, C. Roy Plank, Dr. C. G. Crist and Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Roy.

Six draw prizes were awarded. A baked chicken pie dinner was served.

R.C. DISASTER UNITS TO MEET

Plans for a two day conference January 25 and 26 for members of the disaster committee of the Adams county Red Cross were announced today by the local Red Cross office.

The program, at which the county's disaster plans will be brought up to date from the original plans laid four years ago, will be divided into a number of sections with different sub-committees of the groups meeting at different hours during the two days. The entire committee will then come together for the concluding session.

Glenn L. Bream, chairman of the disaster relief committee, said that Arthur R. Buehler, George A. Bender and George A. Albee have been named as vice chairmen of the group. The disaster committee is divided into a number of sub-committees including survey, rescue, medical and nurse, food, shelter, clothing, registration and information, purchase and supply and the like.

Miss Ruth E. Curtis, casework supervisor for the Disaster Service, eastern division of the Red Cross, from Alexandria, Va., will be in charge of the conference.

Local Guard Unit Praised By Officer

Maj. Gen. Charles C. Curtis, commanding general of the 51st Anti-Aircraft division, with headquarters in Allentown, expressed himself as "well pleased" with the work of the local National Guard unit following an inspection Saturday afternoon.

The trip was the first made by the officer to inspect the local unit and he told company officials that he found everything "more than satisfactory."

GIL DODDS GIVES THREE TALKS ON VISIT TO TOWN

Describing the most thrilling race of his career and using his coach's words that night as his sermon topic, Gil Dodds, holder of the world's record for the indoor mile, spoke before a capacity audience in the Presbyterian church here Sunday evening. He appeared as the first speaker of the year on the Methodist-Presbyterian Sunday Evening Hour.

Dodds, who now is track coach at Wheaton college, Wheaton, Ill., and a divinity student doing graduate work, told of his race in Madison Square Garden last January when he set his world record time of 4:05.3 for the mile run as the climax to a career of 18 years of competition as an amateur.

Applied To Race Of Life
His coach's order at the last quarter of that record mile: "Step out, give everything you've got" were applied by the speaker to the "race of life."

Describing Christ as "the coach in the race of life," Dodds declared that before individuals can be effective in that race they must "build a good foundation in early life, obey His training rules of prayer and the study of His word, and then run the race with your colors at the top of the mast to let the world know you are on His squad."

Before speaking in the Presbyterian church Dodds had spoken before a large Student Christian Association audience at Gettysburg college and this morning at 9 o'clock he was the speaker for a Gettysburg high school assembly session.

Hiroshima Witness Next
At the church service Sunday evening, Reginald Dunkinson was guest soloist. He sang "O Savior, Hear Me."

The worship service was conducted by the Rev. Floyd A. Carroll of the Methodist church and Clyde R. Brown, pastor-elect of the Presbyterian church.

The speaker for next Sunday evening is a survivor of the Hiroshima atom bomb blast, Dr. Takuo Matsumoto, principal of a Methodist girls' school there.

POLICEMAN IS WED SATURDAY

Miss Betty Lee Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Miller, Newark street, Littlestown, and Gerald W. Daley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gerald Daley, Littlestown, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Centenary Methodist church. The pastor, the Rev. Grantas E. Hoopert, who is also the pastor of the bride, officiated using the double ring ceremony of the church. They were attended by Miss Charlotte Daley, sister of the groom, and Jack Miller, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a white suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The maid of honor wore a green street length dress with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Daley is a graduate of Littlestown high school and the Philadelphia School of Criminology. He is chief of police at Taneytown, where they will reside. Mrs. Daley is employed by the Windsor Shoe company, Inc., Littlestown.

A reception attended by approximately 50 guests was held on Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents. The house was decorated with pom poms and carnations. A three-tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom occupied the center of the reception table. Refreshments were served.

Guests were present from Philadelphia, Westminster, Taneytown, Dillsburg and Littlestown. The couple received many gifts.

Plan Course In Girl Scout Work

Plans have been made to conduct a training course in Girl Scout work in Cashtown this winter. It will cover six weeks with one two-hour session a week. There is no charge and no one is obligated to enroll.

The first session will be held Tuesday afternoon, January 18, from two to four o'clock, at the home of Mrs. C. E. Kuhn, Cashtown.

Miss Marian Tupper, executive director of Girl Scout work in the county, will conduct the course.

Any woman interested in this type of youth work is invited to enroll.

For further information call Gettysburg 970-R-2 or Gettysburg 942-R-22.

SELLS SCHOOL
The Woodside school in Straban township was sold by the Straban board of school directors Saturday to Paul Dellinger, who resides next door to the school, for $1,710 at public sale. The former school house is located near Hunterstown.

M. E. Installs Equipment

With three brief interruptions in service on Sunday, Metropolitan Edison company workmen installed four big new voltage regulators at the company substation east of here along the Lincoln highway.

ELECTRIC COOP HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING HERE

Members of the Adams Electric Cooperative, Inc., conducted their eighth annual meeting Saturday afternoon at the Gettysburg high school auditorium where they heard addresses by Rural Electrification Administrative officials from Washington and elected nine directors to manage cooperative affairs for the next year.

President Howard S. Schwartz of Littlestown presided at the meeting which was attended by 160 members, many of them accompanied by their wives and families.

Eight directors were re-elected and the new member of the board is George Steinberger, of near Fairfield, who takes the place of A. C. Keefer, McKnightstown, a member of the board since the cooperative was organized, but ineligible for re-election this year.

Directors Re-elected
Re-elected directors are: Mr. Schwartz and Carl Black, Gardeners, representing Adams county; Elmer Lauer, Dover; Charles Hildebrand, Stewartstown, and Henry Miller, Brodbeck, for York county; and C. E. Jumper, Bloersville; W. G. Henkel, Newburg, and Edwin Kann, Shippensburg, for the Cumberland-Franklin group of members.

The directors will meet Tuesday evening at the cooperative's office here to conduct their election of officers.

Saturday's meeting was opened with the invocation by A. C. Keefer. Edwin Kann presented the secretary's report and Mr. Keefer reported as treasurer.

The report of Manager C. A. Cluck showed that although the co-

Freedom Costly And Price Is Going Up, Truman Says

By CHARLES MOLONY
Washington, Jan. 10 (P)—President Truman today handed Congress a record $41,858,000,000 peace-time budget-half of it to wage the cold war with Russia.

And he warned that the price of bulwarking freedom in the world is going higher still.

The spending program Mr. Truman charted for the 12 months beginning next July 1 is $1,678,000,000 higher than this year's—also a peacetime record.

Still to come is the cost of rearming western Europe—a step the President said he will propose before the year is out, to boost the total still further.

Even in the absence of that outlay, the Chief Executive declared, the nation faces an $873,000,000 1950 deficit piled atop a $600,000,000 red ink entry for 1949—unless taxes are raised.

Mr. Truman warned that future budgets will have to be bigger yet to meet America's mounting responsibilities in the world and to pay the bill for a greatly expanded military establishment at home.

Wants Four Billion More
Thus the President renewed with emphasis his plea that Congress jump taxes $4,000,000,000 a year — not counting higher levies for increased social security benefits and a new health insurance program he wants to start the new deal ball rolling again.

These important disclosures were made on highest authority following issuance of the budget message:

1. The President figures on July 1 the effective date for the $4,000,000-a-year tax hike he wants on corporation, estates and "middle and upper" bracket income. He thinks it may yield only $2,000,000,000 in fiscal 1950, however, because of a time lag in collections.

PLEADS GUILTY TO A DRUNKEN DRIVING COUNT

James R. Dillon, Orrtanna R. 2, waived a hearing Sunday before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, signed a plea of guilty, and was held for court. He was released in $500 bail.

Dillon was arrested at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon by state police of the Gettysburg sub-station on the Lincoln highway west of Gettysburg, and was lodged in the Adams county jail until arraigned before Squire Baschore Sunday.

Reckless Driving
Robert Stouffer, Zullinger, Pa., arrested by borough police on a charge of reckless driving, paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder Saturday night. Stouffer was arrested on Baltimore street, police said.

C. E. Sentz, Littlestown R. 1, paid $25 and costs to Squire Snyder, Littlestown R. 2, for driving without an operator's license. State police who filed the charge said it was a second offense for Sentz.

Richard M. Back, 43 West Broadway, will receive a ten-day notice from Squire Baschore for illegal parking in an alley north of West Broadway. The charge was filed by borough police.

Woodrow H. Hubler, Pine Grove R. 2, charged by state police with making an improper pass, paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Gerald Orndorff, New Oxford.

Others Are Fined

Mike Salko, Latrobe, Pa., paid Squire Orndorff $10 and costs on a charge of driving on the left side of the highway.

Charles Howard, Pineville, Ky., was fined $50 and costs by Justice of the Peace Warren T. Dunn, Biglerville, on an overload charge.

Frank William Gery, Collingdale, Darby, Pa., paid $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Vernon R. Snyder, Littlestown R. 2, for speeding.

Paul Patterson, Fairfield R. 1, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace H. L. Harbaugh, Fairfield, for driving with an illegal muffler.

SIX COUNTIANS HAVE ENLISTED

Six Adams countians have enlisted with the regular army or the air force thus far this year at the army and air force recruiting station in the post office building here.

Regular Army enlistees include Wayne E. Shindeldecker, Fairfield R. 1; William T. Izer, Fairfield R. 1; Delph B. Miller, Gettysburg R. 1; Wallace C. Henningway, 142 Seminary avenue, and Gerald C. McCarthy, Arendtsville.

Philip K. Flickinger, Gettysburg R. 5, has enlisted in the air force.

The recruiting station warned that the period in which those without prior service may enlist for two-years expires January 15.

The recruiting station is open daily from Monday through Saturday from 8:30 to 5 p. m.

ASKS DIVORCE

Martha I. Keller, East Berlin R. 2, has filed papers with the county prothonotary seeking a divorce from her husband, Charles Ray Keller, Hampton, on grounds that he has been convicted of arson and sentenced to more than two years in prison.

George A. Hughes To Retire Jan. 31

George A. Hughes, Baltimore retiree, today announced plans to retire as of January 31 from his post as an employee of the Western Maryland Railroad. He has served the railroad for almost 32 years, having begun July 12, 1917.

A native of Sabillasville, Md., he was employed by the Western Maryland at Hagerstown from 1917 until 1919 when he was moved to Gettysburg. He is a car inspector for the local railroad.

A constable for many years in addition to his railroad duties, he has also operated a repair shop for many years as a spare time occupation.

Colonel Weaver On Duty At Ft. Monroe

Colonel William G. Weaver, Baltimore street, left this morning for Fort Monroe, Virginia, for three months' service with the Historical Section, Office, Chief Army Field Forces. Colonel Weaver spent six months with the same headquarters in 1948 where he participated in the preparation of the history of World War II, which, when completed will consist of 99 volumes. Four volumes have been completed and published up to the present date.

TWO COLLISIONS ARE REPORTED IN HEAVY FOG

Two automobile accidents, caused in part at least, by the heavy fog this morning, were reported by state police of the Gettysburg substation.

Two automobiles and two trucks were involved in a crash one half mile south of Dillsburg at 8:55 a. m. today, and an automobile ran into the rear of another car at the Bethlehem mines north of Hanover.

South-bound traffic on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road had stopped momentarily this morning, when a bread truck operated by Neal L. Ernst, Lincoln Heights, New Oxford R. D., ran into the rear of a truck operated by Clatide A. Brown, Harrisburg R. 1.

None Injured

Brown's truck, police said, was pushed into the rear of a car operated by R. M. Baker, McClure, Snyder county, Pa., which in turn was pushed into the rear of an unidentified automobile.

Damage to the bread truck was estimated at $300. Police estimated damage to Baker's car at $250 and to Brown's truck at $25. No one was injured. The accident occurred on a hill just outside Dillsburg.

An automobile driven by Carl L. Kiser, 320 High street, Hanover, ran into the rear of the automobile of Mrs. Grace Hagerman, 214 North street, McSherrystown, at 12:30 a. m. today on the Hanover-Cross Key road at the Bethlehem-mines, state police reported. Total damage was only $5, they said. No one was injured.

Gettysburg B. And L. Reports Record Year

At the annual election of the Gettysburg Building and Loan association Saturday evening, the following directors were re-elected for the ensuing year:

Jesse E. Snyder, Clarence A. Heiges, William L. Meals, Morris W. Stansbury, John E. Stahle, G. Robert Thompson, Harry G. Deatrick, C. Arthur Brame and William H. Pensyl.

Following the election, officers were chosen as follows: President, Jesse E. Snyder; vice president, C. Arthur Brame; secretary, William H. Pensyl; treasurer, Morris W. Stansbury; attorney, William L. Meals; property committee, Messrs. Heiges, Thompson, Brame and Meals.

The annual report of the association showed 1948 as the largest in volume of business since the association's organization in 1879.

Child Welfare Had 125 Kiddies On List

One hundred and twenty-five children were under care of the Adams County Chief Welfare Services during November, according to the monthly report made to the Adams county commissioners. One child was added to the rolls and one was dropped during the month. The children represent 73 families.

Sixty are in the homes of their parents, six in the homes of foster parents, 48 are boarding, one is for adoption, two are in institutions and seven are elsewhere.

Musical Program Is Arranged For Club

Announcement was made today of the musical part of the program for the meeting of the Woman's club of Gettysburg to be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the YWCA building. The guest speaker will be Dr. Roy W. Gifford, who will discuss socialized medicine.

Mrs. Victor Carlson, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Jacob Heikinen, will sing these selections: "Ein Schwam," by Grieg; "Affani del Pensier," Handel; "Amour Viens Aider," from "Samson and Delilah;" and "I'll See You Again," from "Bittersweet."

NAMED SUPERVISOR

Calvin A. Yohe has been appointed by the board of supervisors in Hamilton township to fill the unexpired term made vacant by the resignation of W. A. Bosserman as a supervisor, according to a notice sent by the board secretary, Ervin J. Baker, East Berlin R. 2, to the county clerk of courts, Bosserman resigned January 5.

H. D. DAUGHERTY, JANITOR AT GHS, EXPIRES TODAY

Harry D. Daugherty, 72, chief janitor at the Gettysburg high school, died this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the high school lodge where he made his home. A heart condition caused death. He had been ill since last Friday.

Mr. Daugherty was a native of Adams county and lived all his life here excepting for four years spent at Altoona. He was a son of the late Jacob L. and Mary (Pfeffer) Daugherty.

He had been a member of the janitorial staff at the high school for nearly seven years.

Funeral Thursday

Mr. Daugherty was a member of Mt. Joy Lutheran church and the local lodges of the Order of Independent Americans and Modern Woodmen of America.

Surviving are his widow, the former Bertha M. Hess, to whom he was married in 1907; three children: Mrs. Wilburn Nett, Gettysburg R. D., and Robert Daugherty, Emmitsburg; four grandchildren and these brothers and sisters, Charles N., Frederick; Emory H., Pontiac, Mich., and Mrs. Luther E. McDonnell, West Middle street.

CIVIL CASES ARE LISTED

Four civil cases are scheduled for the January term of court, according to the trial list issued today by Prothonotary Arthur H. Shields.

One of the cases is an action in ejectment in which Hermie F. (Wenk) Taylor, Wenksville, is attempting to get her divorced husband, Calvin L. Taylor, out of the house which she states she owns.

Two cases are actions in trespass resulting from an accident some time ago near Hampton. In those two cases Albert L. Thomas, and Melvin L. Reeve, both of Hampton, are suing the Roadway Express, Inc., Akron, Ohio; George Stanko, Steubenville, Ohio; and Gerald Adolph and William Aldinger, both of York R. 9, trading as Honeybrook Gas company, for damages as a result of an auto-barn-truck collision.

The fourth case, and the first scheduled for trial, is a mechanic's lien by which L. E. Grogg, Spring Grove, trading as Grogg Brothers, is seeking a sum which he claims is owed him by Michael and Lavina McCarty, Reading township for work done by Grogg brothers.

January clearance. Stock half price. Virginia M. Myers, Baltimore street, Gettysburg, 1415 W. Market street, York.

TRUMAN TALK HIGHLIGHTS

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Highlights of President Truman's budget message to Congress:

Spending

The budget provides for expenditures of $41,900,000,000 for the fiscal year 1950, about $1,700,000,000 above the requirements for the present year.

Income

Under existing (tax) law and with continuing high levels of economic activity, revenues for the fiscal year would be $41,000,000,000.

Deficit

This would result in an estimated deficit of $873,000,000 in a period of high prosperity. It is not sound public policy for the government to operate at a deficit.

Taxes

A government surplus at this time is vitally important to provide a margin for contingencies, to permit reduction of the public debt x x x and to reduce inflationary pressures. I am therefore recommending new tax legislation to raise revenues by $4,000,000,000.

Cold War

The 1950 budget, like all those since the end of the war, is dominated by our international and national defense programs. Together, they are expected to amount to $21,000,000,000, or half of all budget expenditures.

Defense

Expenditures for national defense are estimated to total $14,300,000,000 in 1950, compared to $11,800,000,000 for 1949. x x x defense expenditures to maintain the present program are expected to be higher in 1951. x x x the military forces recommended in this budget are the most powerful this nation has ever maintained in peacetime.

Other Major Programs

A general decline in the number of veterans drawing readjustment benefits reduces expenditures for veterans to $5,500,000,000. $1,300,000,000 below the current year. Interest on the public debt, however, was an increase from $5,300,000,000 to more than $5,400,000,000 in 1950.

BULLETINS

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Supreme court today refused to interfere with the indictment and scheduled New York trial of 12 leaders of the American Communist party.

The 12 asked the Supreme court to: Cancel indictments against them, order a stay of their trial scheduled to begin in Federal court January 17, and throw out a list of prospective jurors from which their trial jury may be drawn.

Nanking, Jan. 10 (AP)—Chinese Legislators still in the Capital today joined the peace debate at an informal meeting in which several Kuomintang (Government) party members demanded immediate end of the Chinese Civil war.

The meeting was held as unofficial but usually reliable sources reported the Nationalists had asked for Big Four mediation of the war.

San Francisco, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio said today that all government troops encircled south of Suichow "were completely wiped out by 10 o'clock this morning." Last reports from Nationalist sources estimated the troops under Gen. Tu Li-Ming at between 150,000 and 250,000 men. Red estimates a few hours ago cut the size of the force down to 150,000 troops.

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The United States urged Britain and Israel today to treat the shooting down of five British planes as a "regrettable incident only."

A statement by the State Department expressed hope that the incident will not interfere with Palestine trade negotiations expected to open Wednesday on the Island of Rhodes.

Church Will Test 'Talents' Parable

Jacksonville, Ala., Jan. 10 (AP)—The Biblical Parable of the Talents is being tried by the First Presbyterian church.

At church services yesterday, the collection plates were heaped with $5 and $10 bills. Two deacons passed them out to members of the congregation, as the Rev. Robert McNeill asked that "these talents be put to work." They will be returned in six months.

Youngest to participate is Sumner Thomas, 6. He plans to buy pencils from his mother, sell and them. The church is seeking $40,000 for building improvements.

SCHOOLMEN TO MEET

A joint meeting of the Adams County Schoolmen's Association and the county Elementary Principals' organization will be held Wednesday, January 19, at 7:30 p. m. in the SCA building. Cumulative record cards for students in grades one through 12 will be discussed.

Plane Crashes Into Factory; Five Killed

Tokyo, Monday, Jan. 10 (AP)—Two American airmen and three Japanese were killed and 23 Japanese injured when a B-26 crashed into a factory near Osaka Saturday, the air force reported today.

The announcement said that two of the planes—formerly known as A-26 attack craft—collided during a training mission from Atami airbase a few miles north of Osaka.

One plane pulled out safely and returned to base. The other crashed into the factory, where the Japanese were employed.

One of the Americans killed was identified by the Far East Air Forces as Maj. Lewis S. Johnson, Jr., 34, of Tuscaloosa, Ala. The names of the second with withheld pending notification of his next of kin.

MAUNA LOA QUIET

Hawaii National Park, Jan. 10 (AP)—Mauna Loa, the giant volcano which rumbled spectacularly to life Thursday, appears to be going back to sleep. A snowstorm left a gleaming white blanket on the upper slopes over the week-end, contrasting sharply with the main lava stream which has cooled from fiery red to fuming black.

Typical swifts rest by clinging to the inside of hollow trees or chimneys or hanging to the face of cliffs; they never perch on twigs or limbs as do other birds.

Upper Communities

Miss Lois Miller, instructor of music and English in the elementary and high schools of Summitville, Ind., spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Miller, York Springs.

Frank N. Hewetson, of the staff of the Pennsylvania State college laboratory at Arendtsville, attended meetings of the Maryland Horticulture society in Hagerstown last week and also an extension meeting at State College, Pa.

Elmer Yoder, sales manager at the C. H. Musselman plant, Biglerville, and Mrs. Yoder entertained the members of the sales force at dinner at Banker's Saturday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Anthony, Pennsylvania State college, were recent over-night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Hewetson, of Biglerville.

Miss Margaret Wentz has returned to Hagerstown after a visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Wentz, Biglerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis and children, Linda, Sharon and Jimmy, Hyattsville, Md., spent the week-end with Mrs. Davis' mother, Mrs. James White, and family, Biglerville R. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Walter Wright, Biglerville, spent the week-end in Harrisburg, as guests of Mrs. Wright's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Richardson.

About 25 senior home economics students of Biglerville high school, accompanied by their instructor, Mrs. Wilmer Diehl, spent the day at the Farm Show in Harrisburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Linta, Harrisburg, spent the week-end with Mrs. Linta's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale P. Lawver, Biglerville.

Miss Jean Thomas, Biglerville, has returned from a business trip to New York city.

The LLL club will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. F. Walter Wright, Biglerville.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Webster, Camp Hill, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Wilson, Quaker Valley.

ULIO RESIGNS STORE POST

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (AP)—Maj. Gen. James A. Ullo, former adjutant general of the U. S. Army, has resigned as vice president of Food Fair Stores, Inc., operator of more than 100 supermarkets in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. Ullo, who joined Food Fair in 1945 after a 45-year army career, said yesterday that he had decided to resign because of the press of personal affairs.

STADIUM CAVES IN

Pittston, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP)—Cave-ins over the workings of the Payne Coal Co. have affected an eight-acre area in Pittston, Police Chief Worthy Hood reported today. The ground has dropped as much as four feet in several parts of the Pittston municipal stadium outfield, Hood said.

The Carolina parakeet, which once ranged as far north as Wisconsin, now is restricted to Florida and is almost extinct.

Bullets Lace Lehigh 72-56 Through Second Half Spurt

After trailing for more than half the contest, the Gettysburg college eagles rallied in the last two periods to upset the Lehigh university quintet here Saturday night.

56 before a capacity crowd. The victory marked the fourth straight triumph for Coach Hen Bream's team.

Lehigh started with a rush on offense, but the Gettysburg defense held them back. The Lehigh team scored 10 points in the first half, but the Gettysburg team scored 10 points in the second half. The Gettysburg team scored 10 points in the third half, but the Lehigh team scored 10 points in the fourth half.

Bream-Men Take Lead

Early in the third period the Engineers built up a 41-34 margin and the Lehigh team began to move. In the fourth period the Engineers moved ahead 44-33 only to have their opponents again take the lead 46-44. That was the last time Lehigh led as the Engineers chalked up the straight points on goals by Brien, Harris and Sachs, a pair of fouls by Belber and a single free throw by Sachs. At the end of the third and the score stood 55-46.

The Engineers literally ran their opponents ragged in the final period which found their lead steadily mounting.

The absence of Harry Pure, out with an injured ankle, was felt, but Coach Harris turned in a beautiful exhibition of securing the ball off the backboards and was given fine support by Sachs and O'Brien. Belber took the scoring honors with 20 points with Plechner coming through in 18. Boehner was an efficient left man for Plechner.

Lehigh team was much classier than Engineer outfits of the past few seasons. Lange, husky center, proved exceptionally troublesome for the locals and it was partly due to his absence in a portion of the third and final periods that the Engineers took a commanding lead.

Frosh Impressive

A very impressive Bullet freshman team crushed the Hershey Junior League team 64-33 in the preliminary game.

After a slow start the frosh left little doubt as to which was the better team and led by a wide margin the whole way.

VILLANOVA WINS EIGHTH IN ROW

(By The Associated Press)

The basketball forces of Villanova swept along in high gear today setting a fast pace for the 56th college cage teams in Pennsylvania.

Villanova recorded victory number eight in an unbeaten campaign today night by turning back the regarded North Carolina team at the main line field house in a 62-59 thriller. Tom Sabol's last minute field goal and foul toss clinched the decision.

A notch behind the Wildcats are their neighbors from Philadelphia, La Salle, which posted its ninth victory in 10 starts with a 63-61 decision over Holy Cross at Boston. Larry Aust, the Explorers' 6 foot 9 center, dug up 23 points.

Villanova and La Salle do not meet this year and it's a good bet that each will lay claim to the national title when the season is some eight weeks hence.

Other high ranking Pennsylvania teams to score victories Saturday were Washington and Jefferson (5-1), Lehigh (5-1), Pitt (7-3) and Temple (7-3). Duquesne (6-1) and Westminster (7-1) were idle along with unbeaten Drexel, which has triumphed in its two starts.

The biggest upset scored by a Keystone State five was the 72-62 triumph turned in by Pennsylvania at Yale in an Ivy league clash at New Haven. Yale's Tony Lavelli scored in 27 points, Penn's Herb Reed in 24.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—The local basketball folks will toss a "night" for Nat Holman tomorrow in honor of his 30 years of college coaching. . . . Nat's coaching probably has been as important a factor in the development of big-time basketball hereabouts as Ned Irish's promotion. . . . Shortly afterward, Holman's City college team will make a flying trip to the west coast and Clair Bee's Long Island cagers will go on an even more extended tour. Both probably will get a painful lesson as to how the other half lives. . . . Ted Hazlewood, North Carolina U. tackle, didn't bother to return to Chapel Hill after the Sugar bowl game. Ted was a graduate student and apparently took care of his own graduation.

ONE GOOD ATTORNEY DESERVES ANOTHER

After signing Georgia's Johnny Rauch for his ex-Boston Yanks, owner Ted Collins added that he had lined up a half dozen or so other new players. . . . "But they're not the big-name players; not the kind of kids you have to go through five attorneys to sign," Ted explained. "It's a touch deal signing some of them. They read about how much some of the other players got and figure inflation is even worse now. You finally have to ask them, 'how much do you want in money?'"

MONDAY MATINEE

Billy Kelly, Los Angeles manager, claims that Cliff Abernethy is the hardest right-hand hitter he has seen in nearly 20 years in baseball. Cliff, who hit .329 for Kelly's Angels last season, will get another trial with the Cubs this spring. . . . Red Rolfe has the idea of making a pull hitter out of Dick Wakefield. Red points out that Dick now drives most of his hits to left center — the longest part of the Detroit field. . . . When Dud DeGroot was head coach of the Washington Redskins, he told a scribe that he had authority only to substitute the centers and quarterbacks. He probably favors unlimited substitutions now.

BULLET MATMEN PIN HAVERFORD

Gettysburg college's wrestling team defeated Haverford, 24-10, at Philadelphia Saturday for its second win in three meets.

Russ Riegel, wrestling in the 115-pound class, continued undefeated in dual meet competition when he pinned Walker in 1:59 of the third period. H. Heldrich, the Bullet's representative in the 121 class, scored the quickest fall of the afternoon when he pinned Hastings in 1:45 of the second period.

Gettysburg will play host to Temple Saturday afternoon in the second home meet of the season.

The summaries:

121-pounds — R. Heldrich, Gettysburg, pinned Hastings in 1:45 of the second period.

128-pound — McCutcheon, Gettysburg, defeated Atkinson, 3-1.

136-pound — Dodge, Haverford, pinned Clegg in 2:20 of the second period.

145-pound — Erb, Gettysburg, defeated Lightfoot, 10-6.

155-pound — Riegel, Gettysburg, pinned Walker in 1:59 of the third period.

165-pound — Soult, Gettysburg, pinned Cadwaldry in 2:32 of the second period.

175-pound — Diehl, Gettysburg, defeated Maroney, 7-4.

Heavyweight — Rodewald, Haverford, pinned Smith in 2:40 of the second period.

Close Finale Today On Los Angeles Links

Los Angeles, Jan. 10 (AP)—The closest finale in the 23 editions of the $15,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament is in prospect today.

Four professionals headed into the final round for the $2,600 money tied for first place at 214. Two strokes behind them were two more ranking challengers.

Heading the procession and hoping for a weather break after yesterday's most unusual climate were Lloyd Mangrum, Jimmy Demaret, Leland Gibson and Eric Monti.

Pressing just behind were Sam Snead and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison.

HONOR PATRIOT

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (AP)—The memory of Haym Salomon, revolutionary war patriot who died 164 years ago, was honored yesterday by the city of Philadelphia. A wreath was placed on Salomon's grave by Mayor Bernard Samuel, A victim of tuberculosis at the age of 45, Salomon was largely instrumental in raising funds for the support of George Washington's army.

Undeclared Waynesboro Five Meets GHS Here On Tuesday

Riding the crest of a seven-game winning streak, the undeclared Waynesboro high school basketball team will invade Gettysburg Tuesday evening for a South Penn conference game with the Gettysburg high Maroons.

Cal Welliver, former Gettysburg college cage star, has moulded one of the best Tornado teams in years and at present has his outfit in a deadlock with Chambersburg in the first half race.

By easily disposing of Hanover 42-28 Friday night Waynesboro took over the favorite role in the race to displace Chambersburg, five-time league champion.

Waynesboro has a veteran and lanky team. The lineup will be selected from Ward, 5' 10", Gardenour, 5' 11", forwards; Eyer, 6' 3", center; Snowberger, 6' 1", Hess, 6' 1", Oiler, 5' 10", Hoover, 6' 1", guards.

Seek Revenge

There is little doubt that Tuesday's contest will be one of the most bitterly waged this season on the high school court. Last year Waynesboro upset the Maroons at Waynesboro and prevented the Forney-men from clinching the second half title and thereby forcing a playoff with Chambersburg which was won by the Trojans. Revenge for that upset is the goal of the Maroons.

Coach Forney and his lads are determined to get back into the running for the title and to do so must dispose of Waynesboro. The Forney-men had one disastrous period, the third, at Hershey last Friday and that cost them the ball game.

A large delegation of Waynesboro fans are expected to come here and one of the largest crowds of the season is anticipated.

At 6:45 o'clock the Jayvee teams will clash.

Other South Penn conference games on tap for Tuesday are Carlisle at Chambersburg, Hershey at Hanover, and Shippensburg at Mechanicsburg.

DELONE LOSES FIRST CONTEST

Mount St. Joseph's Catholic high school of Baltimore dealt the Delone Catholic high basketball team its first defeat of the season in a game played at McSherrystown Sunday, winning by a 45 to 39 score. Delone had played four games previously winning all of them.

At half-time in Sunday's tilt, Delone held a 25 to 22 lead, but the visitors moved ahead in the third period, getting ten points to five, and added thirteen points to nine in the last quarter.

Staub of Delone was the game's leading scorer with 20 points.

In another game in the program the Delone reserves won over the Mount St. Joseph's Reserves, 42 to 35.

TWO OLYMPIC CHAMPS LOSE

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—A spectacular season seems in prospect for indoor track and field followers. Two Olympic champions—Mal Whitfield and Harrison (Bones) Dillard—went to the post Saturday and both were beaten. Past times were hung up in the Brooklyn meet staged by the Columbus Council K. of C. at the 106th Engineers Armory.

This Saturday the track addicts, who know their heroes' feats down to the split second, will have two meets to choose from. At New York the local aces will battle it out in the Metropolitan AAU championship. In Washington the Washington Star sponsors its second annual meet at the National Guard Armory.

Whitfield, Fred Wilt, Bob Black, Phil Thigpen, Browning Ross, Gerald Karver, George Guida and Frank Fox are among the crack runners who will take part in the Washington whirls.

Whitfield, suffering from a sore throat and a slight cold, was fifth and last in the Columbus 500, won by NYU's big Jim Gilhooly. The NYU runner came up quickly to nip Fox, of Seton Hall, in the excellent time of 59.1 second. Whitfield, Olympic 800-meter champ, got off last and remained in that position.

Dillard, the world record hurdler, was defeated in two out of three sprints by NYU's young Ira Kaplan. The lanky Cleveland Negro just nipped Kaplan to win the 80-yard dash in 8.3 second.

Kaplan, metropolitan intercollegiate sprint king, blazed the 60 in 6.3 and the 100 in 9.9 to conquer Dillard by a yard in each race.

TEAMS TO BEAT ESTABLISHED IN OPENING GAMES

Harrisburg, Jan. 10 (AP)—The first week of competition has turned up the "teams to beat" in most of Pennsylvania's numerous scholastic basketball leagues.

The last of the major circuits, the strong Eastern Penn conference, swings into action Tuesday night with four other teams bidding for Bethlehem's 1948 title. Allentown, out of the league last year on a PIAA suspension, failed to apply for re-admission.

Hazleton's Mountaineers are rated the top contenders for the title if Bethlehem should fall by the wayside. The Mountaineers, however, play Williamsport Tuesday night in an exhibition game prior to opening their league play.

The opening night card offers the other clubs paired with Bethlehem entertaining Allentown Catholic and Easton traveling to Pottsville.

Steelton and Reading, in a three-way tie with York for first place in the Central Penn race, meet at Reading in central Pennsylvania's featured cage attraction. The defending champion York Roses play host to Lebanon with John Harris at Hershey Industrial and William Penn at Lancaster.

Two-Way Tie

Chambersburg, South Penn titleholder for the past five years, is tied with Waynesboro for first place in the South-Central state league. Carlisle, with no conference wins, is Chambersburg's Tuesday night opponent. Waynesboro travels to Gettysburg, Hershey to Hanover and Shippensburg to Mechanicsburg.

The Black Diamond loop features Blythe Township at Lansford, Mahanoy City at Tamaqua and Nesquehoning at Coaldale. Mahanoy City Vito, c, 5 2 12 laced Lansford in its last time out while Tamaqua poured it on Blythe Township, 63 to 32.

Sunbury and Bloomsburg appear to be the strong clubs in the Susquehanna league. Each has two loop victories. The Sunbury Owls travel to Milton tomorrow night while Bloomsburg is at home playing Lewisburg.

10 Straight Wins

Lewistown's Panthers, with ten straight games under their belts, play their first home Central Mountain league game tomorrow night with Huntingdon. The Panthers set back Phillipsburg in their league opener Friday night.

Susquehanna Township and Camp Hill are in the driver's seat of the Lower Susquehanna conference with

Troop A Defeats Carlisle Quintet

A field goal by Keller as the final whistle sounded in the three-minute extra period gave the Troop A basketball team its first league victory Sunday over Troop E at Carlisle.

Today's Talk

INTENSENESS

The things that we want, and which we get, are the things into which we pour all our energies and thought. People who put intense into all that they do, get results. And they get that rare thing called satisfaction.

Balzac, the French writer, wrote with great intense. He wrote very rapidly, and corrected his copy again and again. And into his characters he poured this intense to such a degree that you know those characters as you read. They fascinate, and Balzac makes them so true and real that you imagine you have met them and that they are flesh and blood before your eyes. Balzac also used the same characters in many of his stories, so that you keep learning more about them—to your delight. One character was Blanchon, a doctor. I first learned to like this character in Balzac's great story "Father Goriot." So real did the author make this character that when he was dying he exclaimed: "Send for Blanchon. Blanchon will save me!"

The story of Admiral Robert E. Peary is one that the youth of today could well study. For some thirty years he concentrated his thought, and all his plans, upon reaching the north pole. Never did he surrender his faith. There was an intense to all his efforts, finally winning for him his goal.

We read, and hear, about people who take "infinite pains" with what they do. Well, it pays in big dividends. What is worth doing is worth doing, not only well, but as well as it is possible for us to do. It is the people who keep doing things better than they have ever been done before who keep climbing and keep advancing.

If we don't take interest in the things that we do we get nowhere. It is as though we did nothing so far as our growth is concerned. Personal satisfaction is what gives to us rich blood in our heart, and which vibrates health and hope through our bodies and which radiates all about us, as we make contacts and look out upon life.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Greatest Possession"

WISE MEMORY
The memory seems wiser far
Than men and women often are,
Because for some far distant day
It saves what wisdom throws away.

What trivial unto us appears,
The memory will keep for years
Deep hidden, till the moment when
We'll want to live it o'er again.
The sense of worth by memory shown
Off proves much truer than our own,
Because it holds what we have spurned
Until to value it we've learned.

A snatch of song, a jest, a word,
And memory is strangely stirred!
Then back there comes some moment gay
Which thoughtlessly we'd thrown away.

NO CHANGE IN YANKEE POLICY AGAINST REDS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Selection of a U. S. Secretary of State in these dark and dangerous days of Communism's global revolution is a momentous decision.

He must be a man of international vision and vast common sense. Wars and peace-treaties more often than not start in foreign offices.

For this reason President Truman's appointment of Dean Acheson as secretary of state is of supreme importance not only to America but to the world at large. The chancelleries of the major nations have been awaiting Mr. Truman's choice anxiously ever since it became apparent that General George Marshall would retire as secretary because of ill health.

Policy Is Unchanged

Prior to the appointment there had been much diplomatic speculation whether it would involve any change in Uncle Sam's cold war strategy. The answer to that is in the negative.

President Truman has declared that America's policy in this respect will not be changed by his selection. Moreover, Acheson's deeds confirm this estimate.

During his long service as assistant secretary and undersecretary of state, Acheson had a big hand in framing America's policy for holding the Bolshevik aggression in check. He helped develop the "Truman doctrine" for helping free nations (like Greece and Turkey) resist the Red aggression. He also drafted the Marshall Plan for European rehabilitation.

Denies Cabinet Rift

In announcing Acheson's appointment, President Truman took occasion to declare there is no foundation to reports he wanted to soften America's "tough" policy in dealing with Moscow. This statement was in answer to a published story to the effect that he was engaged in a fight within his cabinet to soften American policy towards Russia.

The article in question was by Jay Franklin and was published in Life magazine. The president said it is without foundation in fact in nearly every instance and paragraph. Franklin is a newspaper columnist and was among writers who helped prepare Mr. Truman's campaign speeches last fall.

Thus the president has given double assurances regarding the steadfastness of America's policy towards Russia. He not only has reaffirmed the policy by word of mouth but has put his seal on it by appointing as secretary a man who had much to do with developing it.

SURVEY HEALTH OF WORKING MAN

Pittsburgh, Jan. 10 (AP)—The American working man is becoming more and more conscious of his health, according to a two-year cross-sectional survey of industrial health facilities.

The survey—conducted by Dr. C. O. Sappington of Chicago for the Mellon Institute's hygiene foundation—covered 1,180,551 workers in 277 plants in a total of 33 states.

About 54 per cent of the plants studied had some form of industrial hygiene services. Dr. Sappington reported yesterday. The greatest strides, he added, were made during the last 10 years because the war accelerated industrial health activities.

Not only were workers studied found to be more healthy, Dr. Sappington said, but they were taking many of their health lessons home to their families.

The report found some room for improvement. Among suggestions made were: (1) Increased confidence and respect between medicine and management; (2) fewer differences in various health programs; (3) a higher regard for the importance of prevention by professional personnel, and (4) more time to be devoted by physicians and nurses to acquiring first-hand knowledge of processes and materials.

Data recorded in the study will be used to bring to date a 1919 U. S. Public Health Service booklet entitled "Medical and Surgical Care of Industrial Workers."

Pupils range from four years to school age and attend from 9 to 11:30 a. m. from Monday through Friday.

The kindergarten has a daily program that begins with free play, followed by the flag salute and the

To Hold Inquest In Shooting Case

Harrisburg, Jan. 10 (AP)—A coroner's inquest will be held January 18 in the shooting of a 26-year-old man by a state game protector, Lee C. Morrissey, assistant Perry county coroner, said today.

State Police Detective George Funk said Edward Brehm, a Middletown R. D. 1, construction worker, was shot Saturday near Marysville, Perry county, when he attempted to resist arrest by A. Clinton Gansner, district game protector.

Funk said he learned Gansner shot Brehm with a .32 calibre revolver while Brehm was beating him after knocking him down. Brehm was instantly killed.

Morrissey said an autopsy disclosed that the bullet had entered Brehm's right chest, punctured his lung and lodged in his spine.

HOLD YOUTH, 16, FOR SLAYING OF 12-YR.-OLD BOY

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (AP)—A slim, bespectacled 16-year-old youth whose room was found littered with comic books about crime was held on a homicide charge today in the scissor slaying of a 12-year-old neighbor.

The battered and slashed body of Ellis Simons was found behind a garage in the fashionable Wynnefield section yesterday, clad only in shorts and bound hand and foot. Police said he apparently put up a "terrific battle" before he died.

A hearing was set for Seymour Levin at municipal court today. George F. Richardson, assistant superintendent of police, said that Levin made an oral statement admitting the killing.

"Drew A Complete Blackout" Richardson said that Levin related in his statement that he met young Simons — whom he didn't know before — at a news stand and invited him to his home to look at his chemistry set.

Later on, the statement continued, Levin told the younger boy to leave when "he said it was a cheap set."

"I saw a small knife in his hand," the statement said. "We started to fight. We had a struggle in the bathroom. I went out of the bathroom and got a couple of aspirins. I returned and then saw blood. After I saw the blood, I drew a complete blackout."

A blood-stained, long-bladed pair of scissors was found in his room.

Boy's Body Found

Levin, a student of a select private school, was quoted by Richardson as saying that he now would miss his chance of becoming a doctor. "I guess I'm done for," he was quoted. "Now I guess I'll go to the electric chair."

Investigators searched through Levin's room and unearthed a host of comic books dealing with crime and a number of works of fiction on the same subject.

Young Simons was reported missing by his salesman father, Stanley Simons, after he failed to return home Saturday night. Levin in his statement said he met the boy at the news stand between 6 and 6:30 p. m. Saturday. Police found the boy's body behind the garage after being summoned by neighbors who noticed bloody clothing in the Levin yard.

TREES FARMERS SHOULD PLANT

"I won't live long enough to get any benefits from them."

This excuse has been voiced times without number against suggestions to plant trees to enhance farm values. Impartial consideration of the proposition reveals that there is but one basic thing wrong with the excuse — it is wholly unsound.

Space permits but one example to refute the folly of this over-worked excuse. Suppose there are two farms adjoining, exactly alike in size, soil types, buildings and general conditions. One of these farms has no timber on it, the other has 500 black walnut trees growing, 10 years old. Which farm has the greater intrinsic value? Which would you rather own? Which would bring the more money at a forced sale? Why?

Let's pursue the thought one step further. How much would it have cost the one farmer to start those 500 black walnut trees? Considering time, labor and equipment, if he grew them from planted nuts, it is conservative to estimate that the total cost would not have exceeded $25.

And the same line of reasoning may be applied with equal force of argument in favor of black locust, hickory, sugar maple, persimmon, and dogwood trees.

But why are these particular trees selected?

Black walnut trees usually more than pay for their culture in revenues obtained from nut sales. Even for this purpose they are well worth the planting. But when their timber value is stands out as one of the best investments the farmer can make to utilize fence rows, idle ravines and other unused nooks where the soil is well drained and fairly fertile. Black walnut is not a poor land tree.

Black locust makes rapid growth. The timber is in wide demand for fence posts, poles, insulator pins, tree-nails in shipbuilding and numerous other roles. The tree is leguminous in habits and improves the soil where it grows. It makes fair growth on relatively poor land. It is an effective means to check erosion and gullying. Trees reach marketable size sooner than any other hardwood timber. They are easy to start from seed or seedling sprouts obtained from established plantations.

Shagbark or shagbark hickory trees bear valuable crops of nuts and produce an indispensable hardwood timber for making tool handles and many other wood products where a close-grained, easily worked timber is demanded. Like black walnut, the hickories may be grown along idle fence rows and in other out-of-the-way nooks on the farm.

Persimmon is often the last tree that will thrive after land is badly worn. This does not mean that persimmon trees prefer poor land but that they will do quite well there. The timber is scarce but in wide demand for making shoe lasts and certain sporting goods where a closegrained, easily polished timber is required.

And what is said for persimmon timber can be applied to that of the dogwood. Here is another tree whose timber demands far outdistance the available supply.

Finally sugar maples justify a place in timber planting plans, not only for their fine hardwood timber but because they yield what many persons believe is the most delicious food man has ever known — maple sirup. Just why we Americans are allowing this tree to disappear from our farms is one of those incongruities difficult to explain. Yet it is occurring relentlessly in the face of the truth that sugar maple restoration would prove a profitable investment along with these other six discussed trees.

GARDEN TIPS FOR JANUARY

Inspect your Christmas plants daily so that they retain their beauty and freshness. The Jerusalem cherry should be watered daily and a daily syringing of the foliage will help. Cyclamen and poinsettias will do well for several weeks if watered thoroughly, kept out of drafts and at an even temperature of from 60 to 70 degrees.

If you have calla lilies growing in pots, help them along with a weekly application of a complete plant food.

Water for house plants should be at room temperature. Let the cold water drawn from the faucet stand for several hours before watering your plants.

Start cuttings of begonias in clean sand.

Keep an eye on the tender bulbs which have been stored for the winter. They must be protected from freezing temperature. Take advantage of any mild mid-winter spell to prune grape vines. If pruned now, the cut ends will heal before the plants renew the growth early next spring.

Send for the new 1949 seed and nursery catalogues and start planning next season's garden on paper. This is a good time to repair garden tools.

Snow on evergreens should be brushed off as soon as possible. The weight of the snow may break the branches, or bend them so severely that it may take years to restore them to their original appearance.

Spread small branches and leave over new perennial borders that have lost their mulch of snow. Shade evergreen trees and shrubs from winter sun.

Although the word "incunabula" means in its Latin original "swaddling clothes," "cradle" or "birth place," it has come to denote books printed during the 15th century.

Murder Gets Aligned

BY ROBERT SIDNEY BOWEN

Chapter 25

"And that, I think, is that," I murmured, and picked up my drink. Paula took her lovely eyes off the retreating figure of Parrish and turned them on me.

"As your prospective wife, darling," she said, "I suppose I shouldn't butt in on your business affairs. But might I ask if there goes your killer?"

"You might," I said to her. "Ever since you've taken up this crazy business you have no business in, you've made me a very lonely something," she said. "Did you know that?"

"And then with one of the patent-applied-for Paula Grant quick changes, she said with a sigh, 'Okay, okay. Let's talk about you, then. What does the other guy look like?'"

"Huh?" I echoed, not thinking. "Your face and head, darling. The lumps. Did you forget to lead with your fists again?"

"I couldn't; they were tied!" I blurted out.

"Why were your hands tied? Who tied them? When did this happen? And what did you do about it?"

"Hold it, hold it!" I tried to stop her with raised hands. "I don't know. For sure, anyway, look, you want to help me with this thing?"

"Help you with what thing? Parrish is your killer, isn't he? Why don't you have him arrested? Well, why don't you?"

"If you will only shut that beautiful mouth a moment, Beautiful!" I pleaded. "Now, what did you and Parrish have to say to each other?"

"None of your business! And I think he's rather fascinating, even if he isn't good-looking."

"So you won't help?" I said wearily.

"Maybe I could help if you'd tell me all about it," she said. "Whatever it is all about."

I shook my head. "It would take too long," I parried. "But when it's all cleaned up, sure!"

"Thanks!" she bit off. She reached out quickly, and covered my hand with hers.

"Sorry, Pal," she said softly. "What do you want to know?"

"Only what you and Parrish talked about," I said. "If anything."

"Well, it was mostly this and that," she said. "He was busting a gut to be polite, but I could tell he had a lot on his mind."

"He's got more than that now, I think," I murmured. "Did he tell you about Cardeur?"

"Yes," she replied with a little shiver. "Tried to pump you about me, huh?" I murmured.

"Yes," Paula nodded. "Very anxious to know what progress you'd made. Just as though you'd told me. But he certainly had his nerve thinking, I mean, even if you had."

I grinned, and pressed her hand some more. "Speaking of nothing at all," I put it casually, "where were you last night around eleven-thirty?"

There, it was out, and I certainly felt an awful cheap fool for having asked it. But I guess Paula thought I wanted to know because maybe I had phoned her at that time. Anyway, she didn't bristle, or jump at any second meanings.

"At the movies with Beth Price," she said. "Call her and check, if you like. Where were you?"

I would throw boomerangs! "In a room," I grunted.

"Interesting! What room? And where?"

It was no use trying the quick switch to another topic. It just wouldn't work.

"I don't know," I told her honestly. "I was out. Unconscious, I mean."

"Oh, is there a difference?" She shot it at me tight-lipped.

I was tired, and my head ached, and I had too many things to do besides battle with Paula. Which would actually have been fun at any other time. And so I didn't voice any protest when she gathered up her things and pushed back her chair.

"You need to be alone. Do call me when the balloon goes up. I love to throw rocks. Bye, Gerry."

In the lobby I went to the phone booths, got me a Manhattan directory, and took it into one of the booths with me. I sat down on the little stool and took out a slip of paper on which I had copied down from memory six of some ten addresses I had seen in the departed DePoe's little black.

In the next half hour I had made six calls, and been connected on each one. To each person who took may call I asked the same question. I got five answers in a row that didn't help me at all. On the sixth and last call I got the answer I wanted. I thanked the person at the other end of the wire, hung up, and surrendered my booth to an impatient fat woman who tried to reduce met to a grease spot on the floor with a single look. But I felt so good I grinned at her, and tipped my hat.

"Madam," I said, "why are people born liars?"

"Young man, you're drunk!" she snapped, and almost caught four of my fingertips as she slammed the two-part door shut.

Chapter 26

My friends still wouldn't believe me, even if I put both hands on a Bible, but it so happens that by nine-thirty that night I was in my apartment, in my pajamas, and settled comfortably in my favorite chair.

The jigsaw puzzle was now all complete. That is, so far as my interest in it was concerned. All that remained was to make sure that the pieces remained stuck together, and justice prevailed. That would not be determined until tomorrow at the earliest. And so, brushing it all to one side, I drank deep of my cold beer and reached for one of the papers.

And at that moment my telephone on the table in the corner chose to ring!

I recognized Henri Barone's voice! "This is Barnes," I said. "I would like to see you, Monsieur Barnes," he said. "I would like to see you very much."

"What about?" I asked. "And can't it keep until morning?"

"No, I am afraid not," he said. "Could you not come up here, Monsieur? It is not so far."

"Where's here?" I asked quickly. He gave me an address in the One Hundred and Twenties, and way over west by the Hudson River. I got a little sore.

"Are you kidding?" I snapped. "It so happens I'm ready for bed. Why should I chase way up there? If it simply can't keep until morning, you come down here. I'll wait thirty minutes for you."

"One moment, I beg of you, Monsieur!" he almost cried down the telephone wire. "Do not be offended, but it is impossible for me to come down there. I have been hurt, Monsieur Barnes. My leg. But I must speak to you about . . . about Zara. You will come here, yes?"

I didn't say anything. Instead I did a lot of fast and furious thinking. So Henri (of the dirty face) Barone wanted to see me about Goldielocks? Did the guy think I was a dope? Did he think that the Barnes was a deaf, dumb, and blind dope? It would appear so.

"You are there, Monsieur?" his anxious voice came into my ear.

"Yes, I'm here," I told him. "What about Goldie . . . I mean Zara?"

"I am sorry," he said. "It is impossible to tell you over this telephone. But you will come, yes?"

"All right, Barone," I said. "I guess I can come, if you insist. What's . . .?"

"I insist, and I also beg of you, Monsieur!" he broke in on me.

"Okay, okay," I stopped him. "What's your apartment number, and floor?"

"It is the basement rear, Monsieur Barnes," he said.

Riding uptown in the cab I tried hard to figure out a reason, if any, why Barone should want to see me about Goldielocks. And I did a lot of thinking, too, about his injured leg. Had it been an accident, how bad; all that sort of thing.

A couple of blocks this side of my intended destination I paid off the caddy, paused on the sidewalk to light a cigarette, and to look around.

From force of habit I stuck my hand under my jacket front and made sure my gun was resting loose and free in the holster. And then I started walking up the street. Barone's building wasn't much to look at.

The south side of the building was fitted snug to the wall of the next, but there was a passage-way to the rear on the other side. The glow from the light that was over Barone's door shed enough glow across the end to silhouette anything, or anyone, who might be in the alley.

And I couldn't see a single silhouette. And right out of nowhere a million tiny things came sweeping straight into my eyes. Even as I went blind I knew it was a cloud of pepper.

And even as I ducked and groped for my gun, I knew it was too late. Something hit me a terrific clip on the top of my poor head. My legs went out from under me, and all the colored comets in the heavens played tag around by scrambled brains.

Time passed, of course, and forward movement continued while I sat there in the middle of nothing, not knowing a thing, and not caring a terrible lot, either. Fortunately, though, my bouncing back qualities are as good as the next man's, and so little by little I began to get things a little straighter. But that was all the good it did me. I mean, I still didn't have an eye I could open, or a muscle I could move. Life for me was going on, but I was halfway in between, if you get what I mean.

Anyway, I finally knew that I was in the front seat of a car, and that somebody on my left was driving the car at a steady road-covering pace. I also could tell I was on a well-traveled road. Other cars passed us going both ways. I felt sure, too, that I was near water.

If only I could move! Just my hand. Reach out with my left hand and grab whoever was driving the car. I couldn't move even a finger tip.

More time passed, but I didn't improve any. I even began to slip back a little. The tiny corner of my brain that was trying desperately to function with a fair amount of clarity seemed to break off and become all mangled up by the whizzing stars and comets. And then just when it seemed that nothing in the world could save me from sinking under again for good, the person driving the car turned it sharply to the left and put on the brakes. My whole body jerked, but I did not have anything to do with jerking it.

An instant later I could tell that the driver was reaching across in front of me. Reaching across and opening the door on my side. I knew it, and that's all. I just knew it. But I was unable to catch what followed. Fingers fumbled at my neck. In the middle of a sudden blaze of white light I thought that my necktie was being pulled tighter. I was having the Lord's own trouble to breathe. And then . . . and perhaps it's true that those who are about to die see all and understand all for one fleeting split second . . . I knew that it was not my tie being pulled tighter and tighter. It was thin wire. And it was digging deeper and deeper into the flesh of my neck.

Chapter 27

Exactly what I did then, or how I did it, I shall never know. When your head is exploding with all the sounds possible in the world you are unable to retain things for future consideration. All that I can say is, while my head exploded, and a sheet of seething flame wrapped itself around my chest, I was falling over sideways. To my right, and down. From upwards and behind me I heard a yell, but it was so garbled and muffled by the explosions in my head I could not tell whether it was from joy or from rage.

I was simply falling, straight down. Then white pain in one shoulder told me that I had hit something hard. I seemed to bounce, and hang motionless in the middle of nothing. And then I started falling, down, and down, and down. Maybe my arms were flung out, and maybe my feet were kicking at nothing. I do not know. But without warning I hit water. It closed over me with a terrific roar of sound. And a million unseemly hands grabbed me and dragged me deeper and deeper.

The band of seething flame wrapped about my chest became tighter and tighter and seemed to be forcing all of my insides up into my throat. But there they were forced to stop because my brains were pushing their way down from above. Air! That was what I wanted. But there wasn't any air. There was nothing but cold dark water that engulfed me and sucked me down toward the center of the earth. But the engulfing water had done one thing. It had returned the power to move my muscles.

As I went sinking down and down I tore at my neck with both hands; with all my 10 fingers. But I could not even wedge a fingertip under that thin wire. It seemed sunk an inch in my neck all the way around. Somehow, and that I will never know either, I managed to get my hands around to the back of my neck and find the two ends of the wire that had been crimped over. I went at them like crazy; the frantic, berserk efforts of a man well into the middle of the throes of death. The sharp ends dug into my fingertips and tore the flesh, but I did not feel the pain.

I was well beyond the point where one can distinguish a new pain from the hundreds already consuming the body.

Suddenly the fire circling my throat went away. Convulsively I sucked in air. Only it wasn't air, it was water. But it did put out the flames in my chest, although it touched off two times the thunder that had been roaring in my head. But I didn't mind the thunder because at that instant I broke surface.

I forced myself to relax as much as I could, and float on my back. I couldn't see anything because my eyeballs felt turned backwards in their sockets, and I was simply looking at the fireworks still raging in my brain. A short time later I was able to roll over, and tread water, and begin to see things.

It took time, though, to see things clearly and make any sense out of them. But I finally did. I saw that I was about 20 yards out, and 60 yards down from the end of the Seventy-second Street pier.

I felt pretty good. Full of pain, of course, but I had just about all of my strength back. Anyway, more than enough to swim to shore and drag myself up onto dry land. I sat down and rested for a few minutes. Then I got slowly to my feet, squeezed what water I could from my clothes, and made my way across the Express highway, and up onto Seventy-second street where Riverside begins. The third taxi I waved at swung over to a stop and took me aboard.

When I let myself into my apartment the clock on my desk said 20 minutes after two. I went out into the living room, and over to the phone. With a finger that didn't hurt as much as the others I dialed Centre Street Police headquarters. I finally got Bierman.

"This is Barnes," I said. "I'm in my apartment, you know the address. Jump in your prowl car and come up here fast."

"Come what?" he blew up over the phone. "Me come there this time of morning? What do you . . .?"

"Save it!" I cut in on him savagely. "If you want to be cut in on the final act come up here now."

At eight-thirty the next morning I was standing on the corner of one of the Eighties and Park avenue. Not exactly standing, though. I mean I was strolling up and down, like an early shopper waiting for the stores to open up. However, I wasn't any early shopper. I was there to keep my eyes open, and see all that there was to see.

At 10 minutes after 9 a whole lot of fears and doubts began to churn around inside of me, picking up more and more speed with every revolution. This morning was the morning. It just had to be. If it turned out no soap I'd have to figure out another angle, and run the fifty-fifty risk of figuring one out too late. And so by the time the minute hand of my watch was pointing at the half hour I was as jumpy as a new bride, and twice as worried.

Half a dozen times I started to cross the Avenue when the cross light was green, but each time I forced myself to go back and do some more looking. It was tough to make myself do that. Very tough. Worry that I had figured things wrong sent my imagination into a beautiful fling. I imagined some cockeyed things there on that corner than I have ever imagined all together in my life. And that, added to the way I felt physically, was simply more than I could take. But I had to take it. I promised myself that after another 15 minutes I'd take things into my own hands, and let the flying chips fall to earth where they might.

Just how I would go about taking things into my own hands was a problem. However, praise be to Allah, that was one problem I did not have to solve! At twenty-two minutes of ten the door of the apartment building, kitty-cornered across the street from me swung open, and out came Zara Zaralis with a beaming, cheery-faced doorman at her heels. She carried one of those WAC shoulder strap bags about the size of a small trunk, and she looked quite the cute little thing as she waited while Cherry Face peeped his whistle and waved at passing taxicabs.

Chapter 28

I hugged the drugstore doorway, and watched Goldielocks trip lightly into a cab that eventually swerved into the curb empty.

Still hugging the store doorway, I watched it drive up the avenue and turn west at the next street. Life was beginning again for me, but I waited until my watch said quarter of ten.

In front of Goldielocks' apartment door I stopped, took a deep breath, and then did a retake. I pushed the bell button and waited, with every nerve I've got twanging like an off-key violin string. Nobody opened the door.

The ring-chain of keys Maurice Cardeur had once owned I had in my hands by then. I selected one I thought would do the trick, and opened the apartment door easy as pie, stepped in quickly, and softly closed it. Then I stood there two, three minutes not moving a single thing except my eyes.

And I moved them in all directions at the same time. But I didn't see a single thing save a hundred things that drew a picture of Goldielocks in my mind right away. Finally I moved slowly through the foyer and down into the half sunken living room. I was uneasy, and I guess you could call it a little scared. I felt from the top of my head all the way down to the soles of my shoes that I was not alone in that apartment!

With both myself and my gun ready for anything, I toured Goldielocks' apartment like nobody's business, but nobody jumped me, or shot at me, or even said, "Boo!"

Back in the living room I holstered my gun, dropped myself comfortably on the sofa, and gave myself up to waiting. Just how long I wasn't sure, but I had a feeling that it wouldn't be too long.

Suddenly I heard, or sensed, the swift, sudden, desperate movement. It was like a couple of dozen times in Burma, and China, and in the Philippines. The whisper of death on its way fast. You hear it, or you just sense it.

I didn't twist my head around for a flash look in back of me. Or even start up onto my feet. On the contrary I threw myself over sideways, and twisted the middle part of me over and down, so that I landed on my hands and knees on the floor. By then he had brought down the barrel of his gun. He couldn't stop in time. Neither the gun, nor his forward movement. The gun smacked the sofa cushion halfway down. The forward movement banged him against the back of the sofa. As he sort of cartwheeled I zoomed up. I locked both hands about his gun wrist, pivoted, and twisted my hands at the same time.

The gun fell from his fingers, and his body was draped over my hunched back for about two split seconds. Then, using arm leverage, his arm, I hurled him in a flying arc that ended up with him flat on his back on the floor.

Gordon Parrish was tough, though. Considerably tougher than I would have believed. The average man would have had barely a drop of air left in his lungs, and most certainly he would have had a broken arm, broken at the wrist. But he had air, and he still had two arms to use. He came up like a rubber ball and charged head first.

I let him charge. A little bit. Then I moved in between his out-flung hands and let him have one. No, not to the jaw. I cracked my fist to the front of his neck; to the Adam's apple. And practically at the same time I brought my left down on the back of his neck. Right at the hairline to be exact. Sure, his charging body hurtled full force against me, and I am not constructed along immovable brick wall lines. I went flying over backwards, but the sofa was there, so I actually set down hard. But there was no sofa for Parrish. There was only the floor. He hit it flat on his face, half rolled over and clawed frantically

DEPRESSION IN UNITED STATES IS HOPE OF REDS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—I have a terrifying piece of paper in my desk. At a quick glance it looks like something put together by a drunk. But it wasn't.

Across the middle of the paper, which is about one yard long and nine inches deep, runs a straight line. Above the line is a row of black, jagged hills and mountain peaks. And below the line, as if the peaks were being reflected in water, is another row of hills and peaks, upside down.

All this was carefully done by business experts. Those hills and peaks above and at his neck.

I got a handful of his jacket and shirt with my left hand, hoisted him up a foot or so off the floor, and then smashed his potato-shaped nose with my right, letting go my hold as I did so. I had long ago counted six lumps on my head, so I went through that routine six times. And each time I hit him in a different place. Believe me, he was twice as homey when the seventh time I hoisted him all the way up and flung him back onto the sofa.

His gun was on the floor at his feet, but I made no move to pick it up and put it out of harm's way. Instead I took out my own gun, and held it lightly in my hand. When he finally brought his head down, and glared at me out of the one eye that was still open he just glared. I just grinned.

"How did you get in Parrish?" I finally asked him. "And where were you hiding?"

"I should have shot you, Barnes!" "You should have done a lot of things," I told him flatly. "How did you get in here?"

He glared at me with his good eye, sneered at me with his lips, and said nothing. Well, if he wanted to play that way, it was perfectly all right with me. I came out of my chair fast, took the two necessary steps and raked the left side of his face from the temple to the jaw point with the muzzle of my gun. He howled with pain as the little drops of blood oozed through.

"How did you get in?" I repeated, and moved back to my chair.

"The same way you did," he groaned, and put a hand to his face. "It was nothing."

"Where'd you come from just now?" I wanted to know.

He moved his head a little to indicate a big padded chair in the corner.

"Now the sixty-four dollar question," I said. "Just what were you doing, or did you hope to do, in here?"

I thought I knew, or at least could make a close guess. I wanted to hear it from his lips, though. However, I didn't. I didn't because at that exact instant I heard a key being fitted into the apartment front door lock. Parrish heard it too. He stiffened up a little. By then, though, I was moving fast.

I went over to him and brought my gun barrel down across his head. He folded, and rolled off the sofa onto the floor. I gave him a shove with my foot to a position where he wouldn't be seen at once from the foyer. Then, holstering my gun, I walked quickly to the foyer, along the wall against which the door would open. I reached it just in time to slide out of sight as the door opened. The balloon was at long last going up! I hoped!

Sanity Code Is Assailed By Coach

San Francisco, Jan. 10 (AP)—The outgoing president of the American Football Coaches association lashed out at the National Collegiate Athletic association's year-old "sanity code" today. He said coaches "are fearful we have another prohibition act on our hands."

Harvey Harman of Rutgers, in a below the line represent the history of American ups and downs. They're the periods of prosperity and the periods of panics and depressions.

Can't Float Along

The chart begins in 1790 and ends in 1945. It's amazing to see how many prosperity peaks there are above the line—and how many depression dips below.

The last figure on the chart is the huge prosperity peak that started climbing in 1940. We know that this peak, although the chart stops in 1945, is still high above the middle line.

But—will that great prosperity peak, greatest in history, crumble any time soon and drip into a huge upside down peak, below the line?

It's that question which goes to the heart of President Truman's message to Congress this week.

In his states of the union message on Wednesday, Mr. Truman said: "I am happy to report . . . that the state of the union is good." But he added: "We cannot afford to float along carelessly on a postwar boom until it collapses."

It's Different Now

Above I said the chart of the history of Americans booms and busts was a terrifying sight. It is, and for this reason: At every other period in our history we were more or less isolated from the rest of the world. When we fell on our faces, we had time to pick ourselves up off the floor leisurely and get started upward again.

There was no danger to us if other countries collapsed at the same time or even collapsed because we collapsed.

It was pretty much all right for us, we were safe, every time it happened—up till now. But now it's different.

Might Be Fatal

If we skid down into a depression, our friends in the world, western Europe and Latin America, will almost surely go plunging down into poverty and maybe revolution.

And—a collapse for us is just what the Russians are banking on. It's the kind of thing on which they've built their thinking and their ambitions.

For now, if we collapse, it will be unlike any other time in our history. This time Communism will try to run over the world, including us.

We could almost afford depressions before, when we felt safe in the world. We can't now. The next one might be fatal for us.

statement at the end of the association convention here, said his profession had no quarrel with the aims of the code.

"We recognize it as an effort to keep football amateur and we must be sympathetic with the motive," he declared. "We are waiting to see how honest, fair and free of hypocrisy the administration of this code will be. College football coaches despise hypocrisy."

The veteran Rutgers mentor asserted that "one college president (not my president) recently said 'this sanity code will make liars of us all.' Now believe me when I say that we are fearful we have another prohibition act on our hands because in our hearts — and let's be honest — most of us do not regard it wrong for the regular scholarship committee to give a boy with leadership qualities, and with need, help toward his board and room."

PROBE BABE'S DEATH

Harrisburg, Jan. 10 (AP)—Police today awaited the outcome of an autopsy of the bodies of two-month old twins found dead in their crib. The bodies of Janet Marie and Judy Meyer Lawson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawson, were discovered

Saturday afternoon by their aunt, Miss Ann Slaughter. Detective Walter Brodhecker said he had learned that the twins had been in good health except for a recent attack of colic. The Lawsons have five other children.

DOG STRANGLES BOY

Beaver, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP)—Five-year-old Worthington "Skippy" Bunsale trotted over to a neighbor's house yesterday to play with his collie friend. The dog, chained to an overhead wire, romped over to meet him. A little later, neighbors found Skippy dead on the ground, the chain wrapped tightly about his neck.

Aviators have reported swift circling about planes which were flying at speeds up to 85 miles an hour.

VICKIE SNYDER HAS DELAYED XMAS SUNDAY

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP)—Tiny Vickie Jeanne Snyder finally had her visit from Santa Claus last night with all the Christmas trimmings a three-year old could want.

The chestnut-haired youngster is the object of a cross-country tug-of-war between her mother, Mrs. Jeanne Morgan Bragat, 23, of Tacoma, Wash., and her paternal grandparents who adopted her nearly three years ago.

The mother and her Tacoma businessman husband, J. H. Bragat, are in Los Angeles fighting extradition to Pennsylvania to face a charge of kidnapping Vickie from her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Snyder, Harrisburg beauty parlor operators. A grand jury hearing is scheduled for Dauphin county court next week.

Pressing Charge

But for Vickie, last night was Christmas as she sat near a fully-trimmed Christmas tree and unwrapped presents from a neighbor playing Santa Claus.

Vickie disappeared from the Snyders' home on December 20 when her mother received permission to take her on a short ride to visit friends. Eight days later, the Bragats surrendered her to police in Pomona, Calif. Snyder told a reporter he would continue to press the kidnapping charges against his former daughter-in-law and her second husband.

Snyder returned Saturday with his granddaughter from California where the Los Angeles court awarded the child to her foster parents. Gov. James H. Duff has asked for the extradition of the Bragats to Pennsylvania to face trial on the kidnapping charges.

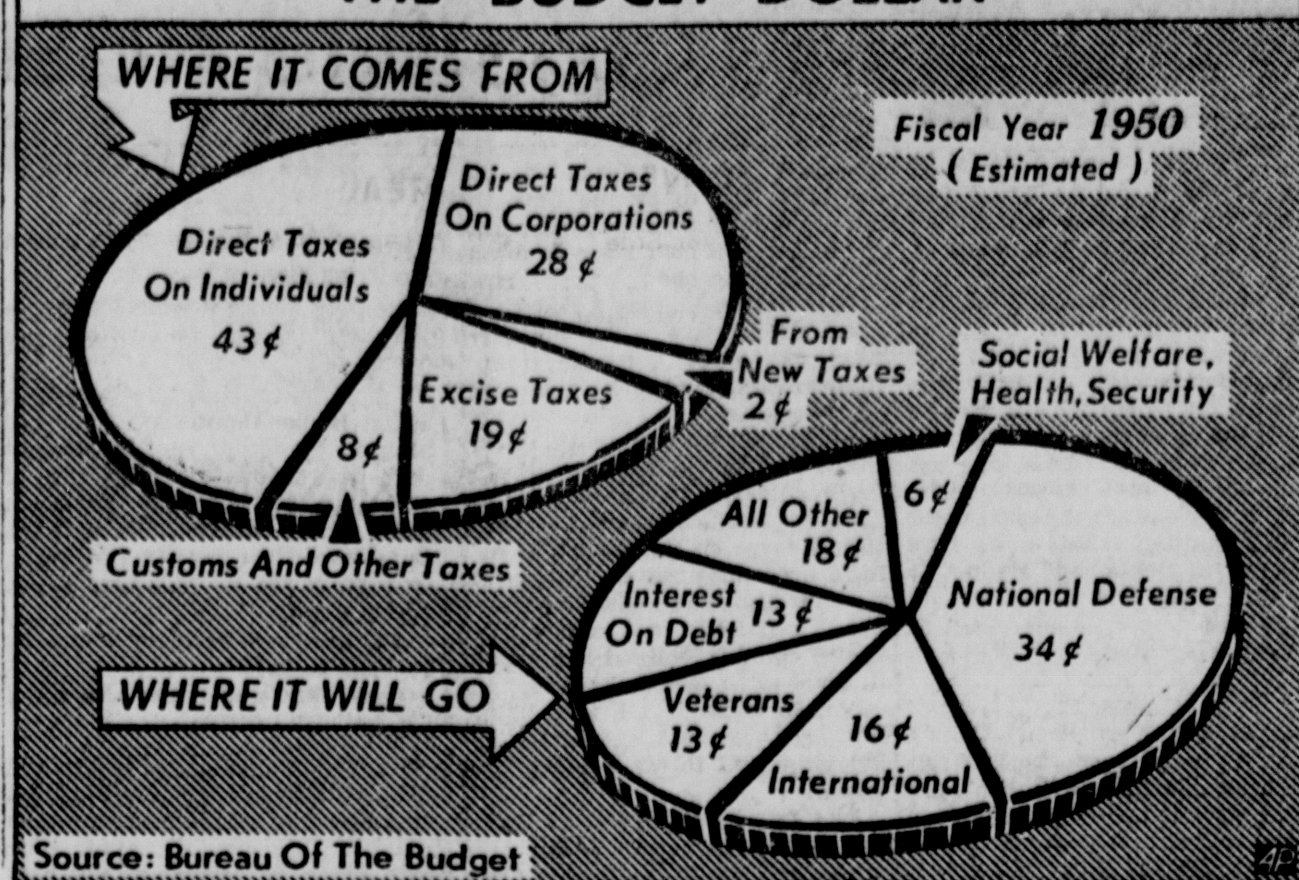

No Draft Calls In Next Two Months

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—No "Greetings" will be sent out by draft boards in February or March.

Because voluntary enlistments and re-enlistments have averaged 35,000 a month in the past two months, Secretary of the Army Royal announced over the week-end that no draft calls will be made in the next two months.

The Navy and the Air Force have not used the draft system, meeting their manpower needs through volunteers.

CLAY SAYS RUSS TACTICS FAILED IN BERLIN TEST

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Jan. 10 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today the failure of Russian tactics in trying to swing the population of Berlin to Communism "must be apparent even to the Soviet government."

The U. S. military governor assessed the results of last month's Berlin elections in his monthly report on occupation affairs.

The report recorded two other setbacks for Communism in Western Germany—in British occupation zone elections and in trade union affairs.

Reds In West Breaking Up

But it contained two cautioning notes: That German nationalism is developing anew in Western Germany and that German authorities in the U. S. occupation zone are making unwarranted complaints about costs of the occupation.

Clay declared the Socialist Unity (Communist) party in the Western sectors of Berlin has "almost disintegrated."

"The defeat suffered by the Communists does not affect the Socialist Unity party alone," he said, "but also the party's ideological and political mentors, the Soviet military administration, and reflects on the tactics used by the Russian occupation power. The failure of these tactics, which were pursued with the greatest determination, must be apparent even to the Soviet government."

Issues Warning Too

"It is clear that Berlin, a city where the population had ample opportunity to observe Soviet methods at close range, has become the worst habitat for Communism. The significance of these facts can hardly be over-emphasized since Berlin is the one place in the world today where the impact of Soviet police methods on public opinion can be distinctly measured in terms of democratic elections."

Clay warned that "nationalistic groups, which had been driven underground in Germany since the overthrow of National Socialism, are again beginning to lift their heads."

Two such groups held meetings recently in the U. S. zone. Clay said "although these groups are as yet small, democratic German leaders recall with uneasiness that, until 1929, National Socialism itself was a negligible movement."

The report named the groups as

NEW COLD WAVE GRIPPING WEST

(By The Associated Press)

A numbing cold wave heaped more misery today upon the Western Plains and Rocky Mountain regions which still were counting their losses from last week's paralyzing blizzard.

Citrus fruit growers in southern California were fighting again to save the remainder of their crops from another freeze. Snow fell in Los Angeles yesterday for the first time since 1932, and in Long Beach for the second time in 50 years. It melted rapidly.

Temperatures as low as 19 degrees were forecast for tonight or early tomorrow in the fruit area which suffered a $25,000,000 damage last week to the $100,000,000-a-year crop. Fresno had a low of 28 degrees early today and Los Angeles 34.

The frigid blast in the Great Plains and Rocky Mountains was Montana's coldest in 10 years. It brought renewed fear for the survival of livestock already weakened

Otto Strasser's "infamous Black Front" and the National Democratic party (VNDF).

Calls Dark Glasses Neurotics' Refuge

Capetown, South Africa, Jan. 10 (AP)—Hollywood take note.

Dark glasses are described by a Capetown doctor as "a refuge of the neurotic."

Writing in the South African Medical Journal, Dr. J. G. Louw says "tinted glasses are used especially by neurotic and introspective folk. Psychologically their use is often a sign of unwillingness to take a proper view of the world or perhaps it is to avoid the appraising gaze of outside world."

Commenting on the increasing number of South African natives of both sexes who are wearing dark glasses, the doctor said "as a mark of civilization they have dubious value."

FREE ON BAIL

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (AP)—Gus Dorazio was free in $1,500 bail today after the former heavyweight boxer was arraigned on a charge of homicide in the fatal beating of a brewery worker. Dorazio, 31, was accused of homicide by fist after Albert Blomeyer died of injuries suffered in a fight Friday.

from the lack of feed during the blizzard which brought death to at least 22 persons and tied up rail and highway travel for three days.

Blizzard conditions again were reported in some Wyoming areas and in northeastern New Mexico, but snowfall throughout the area generally was moderate with railroads and bus lines operating on or near normal schedules.

AUDITORS FILE TWP. REPORTS

Auditors in three townships—Conewago, Reading and Hamiltonban have already made their annual reports to the county clerk of courts, all three reports show that the townships are in good financial shape.

Conewago township started the year with $4,455.70 on and had a total income of $10,611.55 during the year. Auditors Fabian J. Lawrence, William E. Smith and Curtis H. Smith reported. Tax collections on the $980,735 taxable assessments totaled $3,712.24 and the delinquent taxes at the end of the year totaled $239.53. After paying all expenses in connection with maintaining its 9.35 miles of road, the township had $6,502.33 cash on hand at the beginning of this year.

The report of D. H. Neely, Stuart F. W. Sites, Jr., and John M. Diehl, auditors for Hamiltonban township, shows that the township with an assessed real estate valuation of $580,400, an occupational valuation of $50,120 and a three-mill tax, spent $6,527.52 during the year and received $5,997.09. But the township has a balance of $5,724.91 left over from the previous year and ended the year with cash in the bank.

Reading township's auditors, John S. Baker, Lewis Shelleman and Vancel W. Snyder report an increase in the cash on hand in that township during the year. As of January 5, 1948, the township had a balance of $1,594.96. As of the beginning of this year the township had a balance of $3,604.04. Total expenditures during the year were $8,179.74 and receipts totaled $11,783.78.

Kammerer, who was ill. The Rev. Mr. James read Acts 16:25-34 as the scripture lesson and offered the evening prayer. Roy Hoover, church organist, and the St. Paul's choir led the congregational singing.

A special musical feature of the service was a community Junior Choir of 65 voices under the direction of Robert DeGroff and Mrs. Richard Long serving as pianist. The junior choir sang, "Walking in the King's Highway," "The Christian Army," and "There's a New Day Dawning."

Tonight, Dr. Rasmussen will use as his theme, "How Far is Your Hope from the Church?" The service will be in charge of the Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor of Christ Reformed church, near town. Special music will be furnished by a male chorus from the Lutheran church at Taneytown. Following the service, a reception will be tendered to Dr. and Mrs. Carl C. Rasmussen in the Sunday school room, in charge of the wives of the ministers, and is open to the public. Special music will be furnished at the reception by L. Robert Snyder on the violin and by Mrs. Snyder on the piano.

Christian Endeavor Meets

Miss Bernice Plunkert was in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church on Sunday evening. Following a song service and call to worship in charge of Miss Plunkert, scripture was read by Loyse Waiman and Alma Reaver offered the evening prayer. The topic was, "Young People Can be Evangelists," and was discussed by the leader. Next Sunday evening, the leader will be Miss Patricia Long.

A social was held on Friday afternoon at the Jacobs Brothers sewing factory, in honor of Mrs. Mabel A. Patterson, manager, who has resigned. Mrs. Patterson was associated with the factory for 13 years. Mr. Nathaniel Jacobs, firm manager from Baltimore, was present and spoke briefly. The employees presented Mrs. Patterson with a basket of red roses, one rose for each year of service and an extra rose for good luck. They also presented her with a pair of cameo earrings and a friendship booklet.

Catholic Services

Banns of matrimony were announced for the third and last time at the late mass on Sunday morning in St. Aloysius Catholic church between Dolores Dayhoff and Mark Redding, both of the parish. Other announcements by the pastor, the Rev. Fr. George A. Lavelle are daily mass at 7:15 a. m. excepting Tuesday when there will be a requiem mass at 9 a. m. and on Saturday, when there will be a nuptial mass at 9 a. m.

TRIDUUM CLOSING

A solemn closing of the Triduum of Prayer was held Sunday evening in St. Aloysius Catholic church in charge of the Rev. Fr. William Walsh, a Dominican priest, St. Vincent's Ferrer, New York city, the national headquarters of the Holy Name society. The service opened with a recitation of the Litany of the Holy Name of Jesus by the priest and the men and boys of the parish who attended. In his remarks, Fr. Walsh said: "This year marks the 671st anniversary of the founding of the Holy Name society by St. John of Verelli. A good name is a thing to be treasured, and the name of names is Jesus, which signifies salvation. All things should be done in His name. It is in this name that the church spreads the eternal truth. Members of the Holy Name society are a guard of honor and are the staunch defenders of His name for which they should show the greatest respect and devotion."

There was a reception of new members and all men present repeated the Holy Name pledge and received the Papal blessing which was given by Fr. Walsh. This was followed by the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Officials Elected

A re-organization meeting was held after the services in St. Aloysius hall with the following results: President, Z. W. Sanders; vice president, George Collins; secretary-treasurer, Franklin Clinegan. There was a reading of the pledge of the Holy Name Society by the pastor and a prayer in honor of the founder of the society.

A treasurer's report was given by Franklin Clinegan. The pastor spoke briefly and said that "the society is primarily a spiritual organization" and discussed future plans for it. Suggestions were asked for ways and means of keeping interest in the society; of keeping it organized and active. An executive committee was then elected consisting of Henry S. Storm, George P. Smith and Benjamin Redding. These men will also serve as delegates to the quarterly meeting of the southern region of the Holy Name, the next meeting of which will be held at Abbotstown on January 23. Alternates selected were George Collins, Paul E. Altoff and Joseph Schrader.

There will be a meeting of the officers and executive committee prior to February 13, which is the date of the next meeting of the local society. The closing prayer was for the repose of the soul of Charles A. Eckenrode, a former active member and marshal of the society for many years.

Your Share in U.S. Budget Is $282.82

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Your share in the cost of government, as proposed by President Truman, averages out to—

$282.82 for the 12 months beginning next July 1, compared with $271.04 for the preceding 12 months.

Based on an estimated population of 148,000,000, that is the cost for every living American—man, woman and child—of the government's operations at home and abroad, as reflected in the president's budget message today.

'49 STATE FARM SHOW OPENS; TO DRAW 500,000

By LEONARD A. UNGER
Harrisburg, Jan. 10 (AP)—Pennsylvania's $2,000,000,000 agriculture industry goes on dress parade today. The occasion is the 1949 state farm show. More than just a state fair, it is expected to attract more than 500,000 visitors. And the opportunity of viewing the agrarian classic is free.

More than 10,000 exhibits of the finest in Keystone State farm life sparkled on display in the vast 14-acre farm show building. The structure houses the largest indoor agriculture exposition in the world.

Hotels Filled
Harrisburg hotels and other accommodations were jammed by the influx of visitors. Farmers, livestock breeders and orchardists scheduled 30 different statewide meetings of farm organizations during the week. They will tax most of the capital's auditorium facilities.

In a pre-show statement, State Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst said: "The 1949 Pennsylvania farm show fully reflects the extent and diversification of Pennsylvania agriculture. The more than 10,000 exhibits of Pennsylvania farm products show not only the quality of crops, but the efforts by breeders of livestock and poultry to place this part of our agricultural industry on a highly important basis nationally."

All through the huge farm show building visitors were hearkened to the multi-faceted aspects of farm life. Blue ribbon cattle beloveted from their straw bedding in two big enclosures. Nearby sheep and hogs attracted visitors. The shrillness of the poultry area also set up a din reminiscent of a gigantic barnyard.

Governor Speaks
The big arena, seating more than 7,000, was redecked with bunting. The tanbark floor was in readiness for the stomping of livestock and horses in preparation for the formal exhibition.

Although the doors opened early today, the formal opening is not until 7:30 p. m., tonight when Gov. James H. Duff delivers a speech, U. S. Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan also was due to be on hand.

The show features nightly performances of rural talent, such as singing, horse shoe pitching and log-sawing until the closing Friday at 6 p. m.

REITERATION OF FIRM U.S. POLICY CLEARS THE AIR

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)
President Truman's denial that there is to be any softening of America's attitude towards Russia will dispel what, to say the least, were worrisome doubts both at home and abroad.

There is no room for doubts at this crucial stage of the cold war. Success of the defense against Communist aggression depends on a solidarity of effort that calls for high morale.

Two recent developments have given rise to much speculation not only in the United States but in foreign countries. One of these was President Truman's statement in Kansas City that there were Russian government leaders who were exceedingly anxious to reach an understanding with America.

The Lid Blew Off
That had much of the civilized world engaged in eager guessing for some time. All sorts of theories were raised, including the question of whether this meant there was a split in the fourteen-man politburo, which is the core of the Red dictatorship. Moscow took note, but kept its thoughts to itself.

This world-wide speculation reached such a pitch that some administration officials in Washington indicated they thought the President would have to clarify his personal attitude towards Russia. At this juncture a magazine article appeared, saying in effect that Mr. Truman was engaged in a fight within his cabinet to soften American policy towards Moscow.

This article, by Jay Franklin in Life magazine, blew the lid off. The Chief Executive made a two-fisted and wholesale denial of it at a press conference in Washington. He declared that there is no change in America's foreign policy.

No Softening Here
The President put an exclamation point after this declaration by announcing appointment of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State to succeed General Marshall, who is retiring because of ill health. Acheson had much to do with the development of the so-called "tough" policy towards the Communists. That policy is to be continued.

This clarification represents one of the most important developments in foreign affairs recently. It comes at a time when uncertainty could do great damage to the progress of the Marshall Plan in Western Europe. That project is going very well, but the countries concerned are having a tough struggle. Vast damage could be done by uncertainty over such a vital question as the continuance of a firm policy towards Bolshevism.

We may find in the long run that fortune was doing the democracies a good turn in creating circumstances which called for President Truman's declaration. A reiteration of firmness at this juncture would be a good thing in any event. This is particularly true in view of the discussions between Washington and the Western European union looking to a possible defensive alliance.

Naturally Moscow will get no information from Mr. Truman's blunt statement. However, there is no reason to doubt that the President's statement will be taken as a reaffirmation of the firm policy towards Bolshevism.

Says Mergers Of Churches Work Well

Harrisburg, Jan. 10 (AP)—Recent mergers of churches are proving very successful, says Bishop John S. Stamm, new president of the Federal Council of Churches.

More than a dozen church mergers have taken place during the 40-year history of the Federal Council of Churches, Bishop Stamm said, adding that all of them have proved successful.

Bishop Stamm, minister of the eastern area of the Evangelical-United Brethren Church, was chairman of a joint commission which brought about the merger of the Evangelical and United Brethren Churches in Johnstown in 1946.

"The merger is working out splendidly," Bishop Stamm said. "We didn't lose a church, a preacher or a member. Today we are t'ing in more members than both churches did before." The bishop advocated mergers wherever there is kinship of doctrine and spiritual culture. But he emphasized that mergers should never be forced.

son to believe that the Russians had misunderstood the position and thought America was softening towards Communist aggression.

TAKES HIS LIFE ON ANNIVERSARY

East Orange, N. J., Jan. 10 (AP)—An 83-year-old retired mining engineer plunged to his death yesterday from the ninth floor of the Hotel Suburban six years to the hour after his wife died.

Assistant Essex County Medical Examiner Clifford Koehler listed the death as a suicide.

Edward M. Cooke's body landed on a second floor extension which housed the hotel's air conditioning plant. The impact wrecked the installation, Police said.

Cooke's wife, Annie, died at their former home, in Orange, at about 1 p. m., January 9, 1942. Police said Cooke plunged to his death at 1:10 p. m. yesterday.

Wayne, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP)—The crash of a newly purchased motorcycle into the rear of a taxicab killed the cycle's 18-year-old driver. Police said the victim, Frank Foley, a Rosemont gasoline station attendant, died yesterday in Bryn Mawr hospital an hour after the crash, of a brain concussion, a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Littlestown

Littlestown—Mr. and Mrs. John Basehoar and daughters, Sally and Jane, East King street, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Basehoar's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Shelley, Harrisburg. This reunion marked three anniversaries, the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Basehoar, and the birthdays of Mr. Basehoar and Mr. Shelley.

The classification and membership committee consisting of Dr. H. A. Stonesifer, Paul Snyder, Luther W. Ritter and Nevaeh Crouse will have charge of the program for the weekly meeting of the Littlestown Rotary club in Schottie's banquet hall, Tuesday at 6:15 p. m.

The first meeting of the New Year for the Mason and Dixon Memorial Post No. 6954, VFW, will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the post home, West King street. A meeting of the home association will follow the post meeting.

The January meeting of the executive board of the Littlestown Jointure will be held Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in the high school office. Individual meetings of the boards represented in the Jointure will be held at 8:15 p. m. in the class rooms, following adjournment of the executive board. Attention of the board members is called to this change of meeting night from the second Tuesday to the second Wednesday, which change was authorized at the December meeting of the board.

The Rev. and Mrs. Grantas E. Hoopert and daughter, Joinda, East King street, attended the wedding of Miss Clara Warner, Westminster, and Francis Byers, Westminster, R. D., in the Westminster Methodist church on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Byers is a former resident of Littlestown.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stagemeyer and daughter, Barbara, York, spent Sunday with Mrs. Stagemeyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Harner, East King street.

Earl Feiser, West King street, purchased the house at 14 West King street, at a public sale of the Georgia Parr Estate on Saturday afternoon.

Edwin Byers, New Windsor, Md., is spending sometime at the home of Mrs. John R. Byers and family, East King street.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Byers, Hagerstown, spent the week-end with the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Byers, near town, and visited other friends and relatives in the community.

At an election of officers conducted on Sunday morning in St. James Reformed church, along the Harney Road, of which Rev. Edward R. Hamme is the pastor, Elmer King was elected elder and Amos Krout, deacon. The pastor also conducted a preparatory service. Next Sunday at 10 a. m., Holy Communion will be administered and these officers will be installed.

A largely attended winter communion service was conducted in Christ Reformed church, near Littlestown, on Sunday morning. Flowers were placed in the altar vases by the King's Daughters class of the Sunday school. The Michael Schlatter Bible class conducted its annual election during the Sunday school period on Sunday morning with the following results: Isaiah J. Forry, president; Wilson J. Bair, vice president; Edgar W. Berwager, secretary; Harry W. H. Myers, assistant secretary; Richard M. Withers, treasurer; the Rev. John C. Brumbach, teacher; Harold O. Sentz and Kenneth D. Sell, assistant teachers. The Men's Chorus of the church will conduct a rehearsal at the church on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Next Sunday morning following the church service, catechetical instructions will be resumed.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock for Mrs. Kathryn Irene Wildasin, 29, wife of Ralph Wildasin, Hanover, who died Friday evening in the Mt. Alto Sanatorium where she had been a patient for 20 months. The services were held in the W. A. Feiser funeral home, Hanover, in charge of her pastor, the Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor of Christ Reformed church, near Littlestown. Mrs. Wildasin was a former native of Adams county and a life long member of Christ church. Interment was in the Resthaven cemetery, Hanover. Serving as pallbearers were Herbert Wildasin, Francis Wildasin, Horace Shull, Russell McCleaf, Burnell Garret and Melvin Garret.

EX-COALMAN DIES

Bryn Mawr, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP)—L. Rodman Page, wealthy coal operator, clubman and member of one of Philadelphia's oldest families, died yesterday at his home of a heart attack. Page resigned two weeks ago as president of the Page Coal and Coke Co., and at one time was vice commander of the Crusaders of Pennsylvania. He was a director of the Corn Exchange National Bank and a member of many clubs here and in other cities.
